

Amended Annual Update FY 2016-2017

Mental Health Services Act Program Overview

Passed by California voters in November 2004, Proposition 63 (known now as the Mental Health Services Act or MHSA), created a 1% increase in income taxes on personal income over 1 million dollars. These new tax revenues created the first expansion of funding for mental health services in many years. To access these funds, local mental health systems like Tri-City must engage a broad range of stakeholders and prepare five substantive plans.

The following document is an update and status of the current MHSA programs contained within those five MHSA plans.
